

Spring Dumps Snow in East

Many Thousands of Homes Are Left Without Electricity

A brutal end-of-winter snowstorm, unleashed along the northeastern seaboard yesterday, raged on with mounting fury today—the official arrival of spring. It delivered a smashing blow at life, property and vital services.

The vast stretch of seaboard from Maryland to New England got a deluge of snow with depths of three feet in places. Power and telephone lines were wrecked.

Police Reach 800 Trapped In Restaurant

Dig Through Four Feet of Snow To Stranded Motorists

MORGANTOWN, Pa. (AP)—State Police broke through four feet of wet, solidly packed snow today to reach the more than 800 people marooned all night in a restaurant on the snowbound Pennsylvania Turnpike.

One lane was cleared and police reached the group of motorists, truckers, entertainers, babies and others stranded in the darkened, heatless restaurant.

Police said, however, it would be hours before the road could be widened to bring out the trapped people.

More than 800 of them had made their way to the Brandywine Restaurant since Wednesday night from cars, buses and trucks stranded on the turnpike by more than three feet of snow.

Some were ferried in by an Air Force helicopter, which also brought food and medical supplies for 10 persons reportedly suffering from shock and frostbite. One man, George L. Bliss, 61, Rocky River, Ohio, collapsed and died in the crowded restaurant.

Others, too frightened to leave their cars, were led in by truck drivers, who formed search parties.

The group was depressed but well organized as it waited for highway crews to clear an access road through "four feet of wet, solidly packed snow."

The turnpike was closed for 111 miles from Harrisburg to the New Jersey state line.

Dan Freeman, 39, a sales manager from suburban Philadelphia, who estimated the number packed into the restaurant, described the situation in a telephone interview.

"It's hot in here, we're depressed and very uncomfortable," he said, "but there's no panic. We're sleeping in shifts in the boiler room, storage rooms, on chairs, tables and counters. The helicopter is parked outside for the night and we'll try flying people out if the rescuers don't arrive soon."

Freeman told how the group had organized itself under the direction of three doctors, had set up an infirmary, had sent out the search parties, and had passed the hat to pay for food supplied by the restaurant manager.

Lewis Gets Two Years On Burglary Charge

Ralph Lewis was tried in Circuit Court Thursday afternoon for taking part in the burglary of the Main Street Bar March 8, and was sentenced to two years imprisonment. He pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary and declined the services of an attorney. Judge Dimmitt Hoffman heard the evidence and handed down the decision.

The burglary was discovered by the Sedalia city police during a routine check of buildings during the night of March 8. The rear door of the bar was found kicked open and police notified the owner. The owner checked and found a substantial amount of liquor and $55 in cash missing.

Lewis was picked up a few days later, and investigation produced evidence indicating he had taken part in the burglary. Judge Frank Armstrong of the Pettis County Magistrate Court conducted a preliminary hearing Thursday and found evidence to indicate a crime might have been committed and that Lewis might be guilty. He turned the case over to Circuit Court for hearing.

Committee Stops Fund For Lease-Purchase Programs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today cut off funds for the lease-purchase program. But it recommended $177,255,000 in new cash to finance construction of 66 public buildings in the program.

The committee said the direct appropriation procedure will save money. It ordered that hereafter the lease-purchase method be used only for constructing post offices.

As an antirecession measure, the committee approved 75 million dollars to accelerate repair and improvement of government buildings.

The committee's action was in connection with approval of a $6,549,920,900 bill to finance independent federal agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1. This is $627,577,400 more than President Eisenhower requested and $1,159,988,100 more than Congress gave the same agencies this year.

In a sharply worded explanation of its lease-purchase action, the committee criticized Franklin G. Floete, the general services administrator, and Maurice H. Stans, who recently became director of the Budget Bureau.

It said it asked Floete not to bind the government on any more lease-purchase contracts until further notice. But, the committee added, he "ignored the request and within the last two weeks has signed two lease-purchase contracts and advises the committee that he intends to sign 26 others."

The committee said Stans ignored a request not to require GSA to enter into any commitments for lease-purchase contracts until Congress could decide whether the buildings should be constructed under direct appropriations.

Rebel Major Who Held Port Now Trapped

Indonesian Military Claims 300 Troops Have Been Isolated

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The army commander, who rebelled Sunday and held the North Sumatra port of Medan for 27 hours before it was recaptured, is now trapped, the Indonesian army claimed today.

The army spokesman, Lt. Col. Rudy Pirngadi, said Maj. Boyke Nainn Golan and about 300 troops are isolated near Lake Tobo, a famous resort 5 miles southwest of Medan.

Golan's battalion in Medan rebelled against the Jakarta government Sunday but Jakarta troops retook the important commercial center the next day.

The pursuit was the only military activity, aside from scattered guerrilla fighting, reported on Sumatra. Pakanbaru, the Central Sumatra oil center recaptured by Jakarta forces March 12, was reported quiet.

The chief of army intelligence, Col. Sukendro, claimed that more than 10 rebels have been killed in the five-week-old civil war while casualties of the Jakarta government so far are only two killed.

The Dutch liner Oranje landed some 520 foreign evacuees from Medan at Singapore today. They included 122 Americans—mostly women and children, 230 Dutch and more than 100 Britons.

Two ships are scheduled to evacuate foreigners—mostly Dutch—from the west coast port of Padang, the rebels military headquarters.

The government radio said arrangements were also made to evacuate 30 foreigners from Rengat, an oil center of the U.S. Standard Vacuum Oil Co. 100 miles southeast of Pakanbaru. Stanvac's Indonesian representative, E. Berlin, said 60 Americans would remain at Lirik, the company's Central Sumatran base six miles north of Rengat.

Navigation Minister Mohammad Natsir announced the release of ships of the Dutch KPM shipping line which were seized last December. Natsir said the line was banned from future trade among Indonesia's islands.

Intelligence chief Sukendro repeated earlier charges that American arms seized at Pakanbaru had been dropped to the rebels but today added that the plane was a C54 (DC4) from Formosa.

Markings on some of the weapons indicated they were made in the United States in 1952, Sukendro said, but he declined to say who he thought supplied them.

Senate Rushes to Ike Support Freeze Bill

Action Taken Despite Veto Probability

Senate Accepts House Move to Limit Its Effect to 1958

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today rushed to President Eisenhower a farm price support freeze bill which he is considered likely to veto.

The Senate completed congressional action by accepting a House amendment to limit its effect to 1958.

The Senate vote on that issue was 48-32. Previously the Senate had passed the measure without the limit 50-43. The House bill passed that branch 210-172.

The measure would prevent any reduction in price supports and acreage allotments below 1957 levels.

Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson both have expressed sharp opposition to it. The secretary has asked Congress for authority to lower supports on basic commodities to 60 per cent, as compared with the 75 per cent floor in present law.

Republican senators cried that Democrats were playing politics by rushing the bill through, in an effort to embarrass the President.

Neither the Senate vote on original passage nor the House vote was heavy enough to override a veto, which takes a two-thirds majority.

Democratic backers of the freeze contended they were giving the farm economy a half-billion-dollar shot in the arm, not playing politics.

Easter Seals Are in Mail, Says McCloskey

"The Easter Seals" are in the mail, said John McCloskey, Easter Seal Chairman of the Pettis County Society for Crippled Children and Adults. The money received from the sale of the Easter Seals, goes for the aid of both children and adults who suffer from any crippling disease or other affliction.

More than 70 per cent of the money taken in stays right in Pettis County and is used here, McCloskey said. Anticipating that the society will receive at least as much from this year's drive as last, a budget has been prepared by the local society, calling for a monthly payment of $100 to the Crippled Children's Center.

For services rendered to crippled children, and $75 per month for transportation of needy children to Mercy Hospital and to the University of Missouri Hospital for needed medical care. If more money is received, the society will be able to expand its services and help more children and also extend help to older persons who need assistance.

"A little sacrifice on the part of each family will enable the society to carry on the good work that was started many years ago under the direction of the late Mrs. J. C. Connor, McCloskey said. "This is the only drive the Society conducts for funds, and we do not share in United Funds Campaign, so we ask that everyone help a little."

"We know that the people of this county will respond generously in the past."

He challenged the local school board members to provide the leadership in getting expanded physical facilities and more teachers.

"Fortunately Missouri is a wealthy state," the governor said. "Our per capita state tax is one of the lowest in the nation. The question is not can we afford to provide better education for Missouri children. It is rather can we afford not to provide an educational program that will assure the maximum individual and state development."

"Both pupils and their parents must be educated to the necessity of pupils undertaking work that challenges their maximum effort. Dependent as we are upon the abilities and talents of our able pupils, it is paradoxical that we should have so long neglected their maximum development."

NEW EXALTED RULER—L. A. Pharris was elected Exalted Ruler of Sedalia Lodge No. 125, B.P.O. Elks at the meeting held in the lodge Wednesday night. He was advanced from Esteemed Leading Knight.

Brown, re-elected; treasurer, John M. Blue, re-elected; trustee for three years, L. T. Twenter, re-elected; Tiler, Amos Schroeder, re-elected.

R. S. Johnson, retiring Exalted Ruler, was elected alternate to the Grand Lodge Session.

Installation of the new officers will occur April 2.

Blair States Schools Need Parental Aid

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Gov. James T. Blair said today the schools can do much to meet current juvenile problems but they can't do the job without parental help.

This is the way he put it in a speech prepared for a meeting of the Missouri School Boards Assn.: "The homes and churches must assume their part of the responsibility for our children and youth. The public schools are not correctional institutions. Teachers cannot be expected to discipline children where there has been a complete breakdown of parental authority."

"While there are some children with whom the schools cannot be expected to deal, schools can do much in meeting the current juvenile problem if given adequate facilities and personnel."

He said this would include small classes so pupils could get individual attention, a guidance program and high quality teaching personnel.

He challenged the local school board members to provide the leadership in getting expanded physical facilities and more teachers.

"Fortunately Missouri is a wealthy state," the governor said. "Our per capita state tax is one of the lowest in the nation. The question is not can we afford to provide better education for Missouri children. Sputnik II Passes Over City Thursday

Several Sedalians and others in this area had a peek at Sputnik II as it arced at enormous speed through the skies Thursday night.

Mrs. Walter Bohlen, Route 2, East Highway 50, and husband, at 7:34 p.m. had a glimpse of the satellite as it was passing through its orbit and Teddy Phillips, 616 East 14th, a member of Russell Maag's astronomy class, saw it moving from the south northward.

Maag did not get a view of it but received several calls relative to its passing in the high atmosphere.

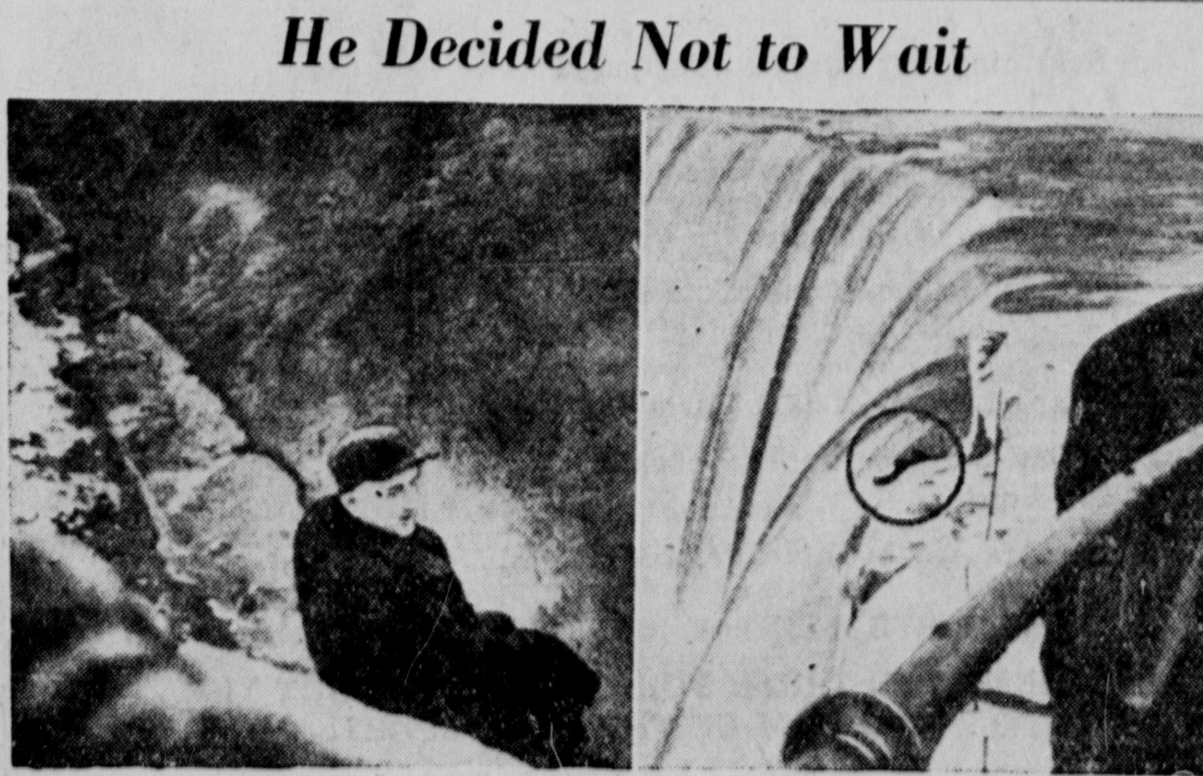

Ike Cancels Trip Due to Weather

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower canceled his scheduled flight to West Point today because of stormy weather.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, announced the cancellation.

The President had planned to go to West Point to take part in Founders' Day ceremonies.

Hagerty said the trip was shelved because of generally bad weather both in Washington and in the West Point area, on the ground and in the air.

Lutheran Unit Settles Issue About Merger

CHICAGO (AP)—A 46-man Lutheran Unity Commission has resolved two major issues holding up merger of four Lutheran Church bodies into a single three million member church.

The commission, made up of leaders of the four groups, yesterday adopted resolutions concerning the ministry and seminary control. The resolutions still must be acted upon by the individual church bodies.

One resolution approved a compromise plan for theological education giving the central church body a stronger voice in operating the 13 seminaries of the proposed new church. Broad powers and duties would be assigned to a board of theological education.

The second resolution said that ministers ordained by the new church "shall refrain from membership in secret societies or be subject to discipline." This would ban a minister from belonging to lodges.

Still to be resolved are the question of geographical boundaries of the synods, working out the broad principles of organization and determining the powers and functions of the officers and executive body.

Groups involved in the merger plan are the United Lutheran Church in America with 2,335,000 members; the Augustana Evangelical Lutheran Church with 557,000; the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church with 36,000 and the American Evangelical Lutheran Church with 22,000.

Sunday School Lesson Notes:

By William E. Gilroy, D.D.

The words of Jesus in John 16:33, "Be of good cheer; I have overcome the world," taken in context, are impressive and prophetic.

The sublime confidence with which Jesus encouraged His disciples follows predictions in the same passage of something much less than world conquest, the assurance of a dark hour in which they would be scattered, and of tribulation that would befall them.

Yet Jesus bade them, "Be of good cheer." The disciples were soon to experience the confidence of their Master. Following the Resurrection they went forth to conquer, so few against that vast Roman world as to make their confidence in their mission perhaps the most remarkable thing in all history. How much and how little the Christian mission of the world, the request has been achieved, the condition of the present world reveals, if much has been accomplished, there remains much more to be done.

But the Christian histories make manifest the reality of that strange paradox of confidence and victory in the hour and presence of seeming defeat.

And so the overcoming goes on, in spite of persecution, which in our own time, in China, South Africa, and elsewhere, has reenacted persecution as terrible as in dark, earlier days of martyrdom.

Nor are the forces against world Christian conquest all of persecution or of physical hostility. There is still a world of darkness that surrounds the regions of enlightenment; righteousness and truth are opposed by evil and falsity, love and brotherhood contend with crime and violence. At the very doors of our churches are millions whose lives give little indication that they have ever been heard of Jesus of Nazareth. Much of our so-called culture is thoroughly pagan when contrasted with Christian standards and ideals. The task of conquering the world for Christ goes on, and as the world becomes one, a thousand miles means less than a mile of the ancient world, the task of Christian evangelism becomes more intense and concentrated. I think it may be said that in spite of all that is being accomplished, Christian activity lags far behind.

But for consecrated Christians, though they be not martyrs, there is the sense of victory. They know that in themselves, and millions like them, Christ has won, and they wait, work, and pray for the larger conquests.

Bible Film Scheduled By Salvation Army

"My Right and My Cause," a sound motion picture in color, which tells a story of the Bible in Korea, will be shown at the Salvation Army, 120 East Fifth on March 25 at 7:45 p.m. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

The picture presents a true drama of the Rev. Young Bin Im, General Secretary of the Korean Bible Society and the almost miraculous preservation of a Korean Bible manuscript. Im and his wife suffered much during the almost hopeless months of the Korean War. The Bible House in Seoul was burned by the communists along with the entire stock of Scriptures and part of the precious manuscript. Im was forced to hide himself and the manuscript many times from the enemy. Finally he escaped to Japan where the Bible was printed. Today this Book is being distributed in Korea.

The major part of the film was taken in Korea and includes war scenes supplied by the Signal Corps. The Korean music used on the sound track is played on authentic Korean instruments.

The film was produced by the American Bible Society, a world-wide missionary agency which translates, publishes and distributes the Scriptures in many languages around the world.

Moose Lodge To Dedicate New Home

Lloyd Deuschle, vice-president of the Missouri Moose Association, at a recent meeting of the Women of the Moose, called attention to the celebration of the Legion of the Moose to be held at the Moose Home this Sunday.

In conjunction with the other Legions throughout the world, Moose No. 4 will join in the simultaneous celebration by means of a closed circuit to hear the ceremonies dedicating a new $185,000 residence at Moosehaven, Fla.

Deuschle, speaker of the evening, talked on Brotherhood in which he stated that Moosehaven is a concrete example of Brotherhood in action, founded in 1922 and administered by a board of governors selected at the annual convention of the Loyal Order of the Moose. This beautiful "City of Contentment," he said, is supported by a portion of the dues of every Moose member, with the added help of the Legion and Women's Auxiliaries.

"The Women of the Moose," continued the speaker, "can be proud of their past in helping to maintain this model community of peace and security for the elderly brothers and their wives."

Moosehaven is located on the banks of the St. John's River, 16 miles south of Jacksonville, Fla. It is an independent community on a 68-acre estate, with ten modern residence buildings, each with its own dining room facilities, living room and porches. Other buildings include a hospital, auditorium, commissary, industrial building and private residence of staff members. Nearby is the 100-acre dairy farm which supplies Moosehaven with dairy products.

All the residents have pleasant jobs, many of them continuing in the type of work or profession followed before retiring. The comfort of companionship and recreational facilities are among the many advantages enjoyed at Moosehaven. Modern homes are provided for husband and wife, the finest medical care, good food, and an active, interesting life, geared to their age group, all combine to give each resident a chance to enjoy health and happiness in the living symbol of brotherhood, Deuschle said.

The speaker was introduced by Karen Marcum, senior regent, in the absence of Margaret Rodgers, Moosehaven chairman.

Soviet Family Reported Well

CHICAGO (AP)—Family Court officials who examined three young brothers separated from their Soviet-born parents when the couple returned to Moscow say the boys are well adjusted and in good physical condition.

A fourth brother, George, 10, who has a cold, was not examined.

The children became wards of the court last summer after Judge John H. Clayton Jr. refused to let them accompany their parents to the Soviet Union. Their parents, George and Nabejia Kozmin, were former Nazi slave laborers who emigrated to Chicago. Both were hospitalized in 1953 for mental treatment and were on relief when they decided to return to the Soviet Union.

Edward J. Nead, chief probation officer, said he arranged the examinations to forestall any possibility of charges that the children have been mistreated.

The boys were the subject of a diplomatic discussion this week between Secretary of State Dulles and Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov.

Clayton told newsmen that the Soviets have blocked all efforts to unite the family in the Soviet Union.

"We have asked the Soviet authorities repeatedly to permit an investigation of the conditions under which these youngsters would live if they were to return to Russia," Clayton said. "We have had no reply."

George and Richard, 11, are living in a Baptist church home, and Paul, 8 and Peter, 2, are in a foster home.

The Street Problem....

Ruts, Ruts, Ruts!!

Sedalians have been hearing a great deal about street ruts lately—as though this community suffered alone because of some neglect of the city administration.

The problem of streets is a distressing one not only to Sedalia but other cities because of the unseasonable weather this winter. Everywhere in the midwest streets are breaking down.

Placing the blame for this often goes far afield, even down the field like a political football. For instance anything we might say to lift the onus of responsibility for bad streets from the present administration would be considered by some of the political contenders in the current election fracas as biased for Bagby.

So let's have a look at a neighbor—Columbia—and what the editor of the Tribune over there has to say on the subject of streets. It's quite apropos.

"It is a fundamental principle of municipal government that each property owner is responsible for construction of a proper street in front of his property. Then, when the street is once properly built, the city becomes responsible for maintenance of the street from then on. The trouble is that the city hasn't stuck with that principle. Instead, it has accepted, formally or informally, streets that were little more than cinder paths. Property owners along those streets then protested about the dust in the Summer time and the city poured a little oil on them. They protested about the mudholes in the Winter time and the city filled the holes with cinders, or even some crushed rock. Before long the adjacent property owners thought they had a street and others who used the right-of-way thought the same thing and demanded the city 'repair' the street and keep it in good order, not realizing that you can't 'repair' a pile of cinders with a little oil on top. In some instances these so-called streets have become major trafficways, as witness West Boulevard, South.

"For all of this the City Council—the present group and its predecessors, on back into the days of the mayor-council form of government—has been to blame. Councilmen have yielded to pressures of real estate developers, and individual property owners. The practice is of such long standing that we should perhaps not be too critical of any individual councilman or any individual situation. But the Council has a bear by the tail, and as Columbia grows bigger, the bear grows bigger, too.

"An obvious answer is for the Council to say there won't be any more of this and to stop repair of streets which aren't worth repairing and to stop accepting streets which soon won't be worth repairing. The Council should stop accepting inadequate streets in new additions—should have stopped it long ago, but it can't just wash its hands of the streets which it has been improperly maintaining. To a degree, by tradition at least, it is committed to their maintenance, and in the case of those which are heavily travelled the city must see that passable traffic lanes are maintained. But the city has nowhere near enough money in sight to build all of the streets that need to be built.

"So it would seem that we are just going to have to work ourselves out of this mess, step by step, as best we can. Probably residents on some of these streets will be willing to get together and pay for needed streets in front of their properties, a step which could be profitable for the property owners in the long run; perhaps in some cases the city could force the street improvement by legal means, and in some cases, where the street in question has become a major thoroughfare, use of general city funds for the improvement might be justified.

"It is going to be a tedious task—a whole series of tedious tasks—but it is something that has to be done. The city can't hope to pay for all of these streets from tax funds, and we don't believe there would be any enthusiasm for a bond issue to do the job. But, some way or another, the mess needs to be resolved. It is a challenging task."

Indeed it is a challenging task—not only for Columbia but for Sedalia and many other communities. And there is no new political miracle worker on the present horizon who can conscientiously promise to get the job done alone.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Opportunity For Major FCC Overhaul

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It looks as if the White House missed a great opportunity in filling the shoes of ousted Richard Mack on the Federal Communications Commission. The man like appointed, John Cross, is a likable pedestrian bureaucrat, an honest engineer, but without special ability and with no real concept of the importance the FCC can play in the American way of life.

However, he comes from Arkansas, home state of Congressman Oren Harris, now chairman of the legislative oversight investigating committee, and the White House was so anxious to please the man who was about to cross-examine Sherman Adams, Ike's brother-in-law, and others close to the White House, that Cross was rushed into the job.

That Cross is completely honest is indicated by his own description of himself to the press as "not smart." At least he's frank enough to admit it.

Meanwhile, with Congress talking about making the FCC the kind of agency it was intended to be, here are some fairly simple moves that could lift it out of the slough of political favoritism:

1. Pick high calibre commissioners, not routine bureaucrats.
2. Appoint commissioners for more than seven years, so they won't have to go hunting after seven years among radio-TV executives. A commissioner now thinks twice before he antagonizes the networks, for fear he'll soon be looking for a job from the networks.
3. Subject the broadcast industry to public utility regulation that would limit profits to be made from a TV channel or radio station. This would encourage more public service programs.
4. Make it a criminal offense for any outsider, including congressmen, to talk to a commissioner about the award of a license under adjudication. Congressmen, who are constantly harassed by constituents to pressure FCC commissioners, would welcome this.

COLUMBIA MISSOURIAN What's In A Word? "Ain't" ain't in the dictionary. This phrase has been repeated countless times by small boys who wish to impress their companions with their grammatical knowledge. These same boys usually turn around and use the forbidden word (actually in the dictionary as a dialectical or illiterate expression) in their very next sentence, giving the others a chance to use the hackneyed phrase again. And so it goes, like a vicious circle.

Yet "ain't" is used by many persons other than children. The word occasionally creeps into the conversation of almost everyone except college professors and some public speakers. Most of the time, of course, it is used for its shock value; nevertheless, we hear it often.

What's wrong with "ain't" and similar so-called ungrammatical expressions? In a recent magazine article Wilfred Funk, author of "Six Weeks to Words of Power," said, "It all depends on the orbit in which you're moving." Words that are taboo in some circles are perfectly acceptable in others.

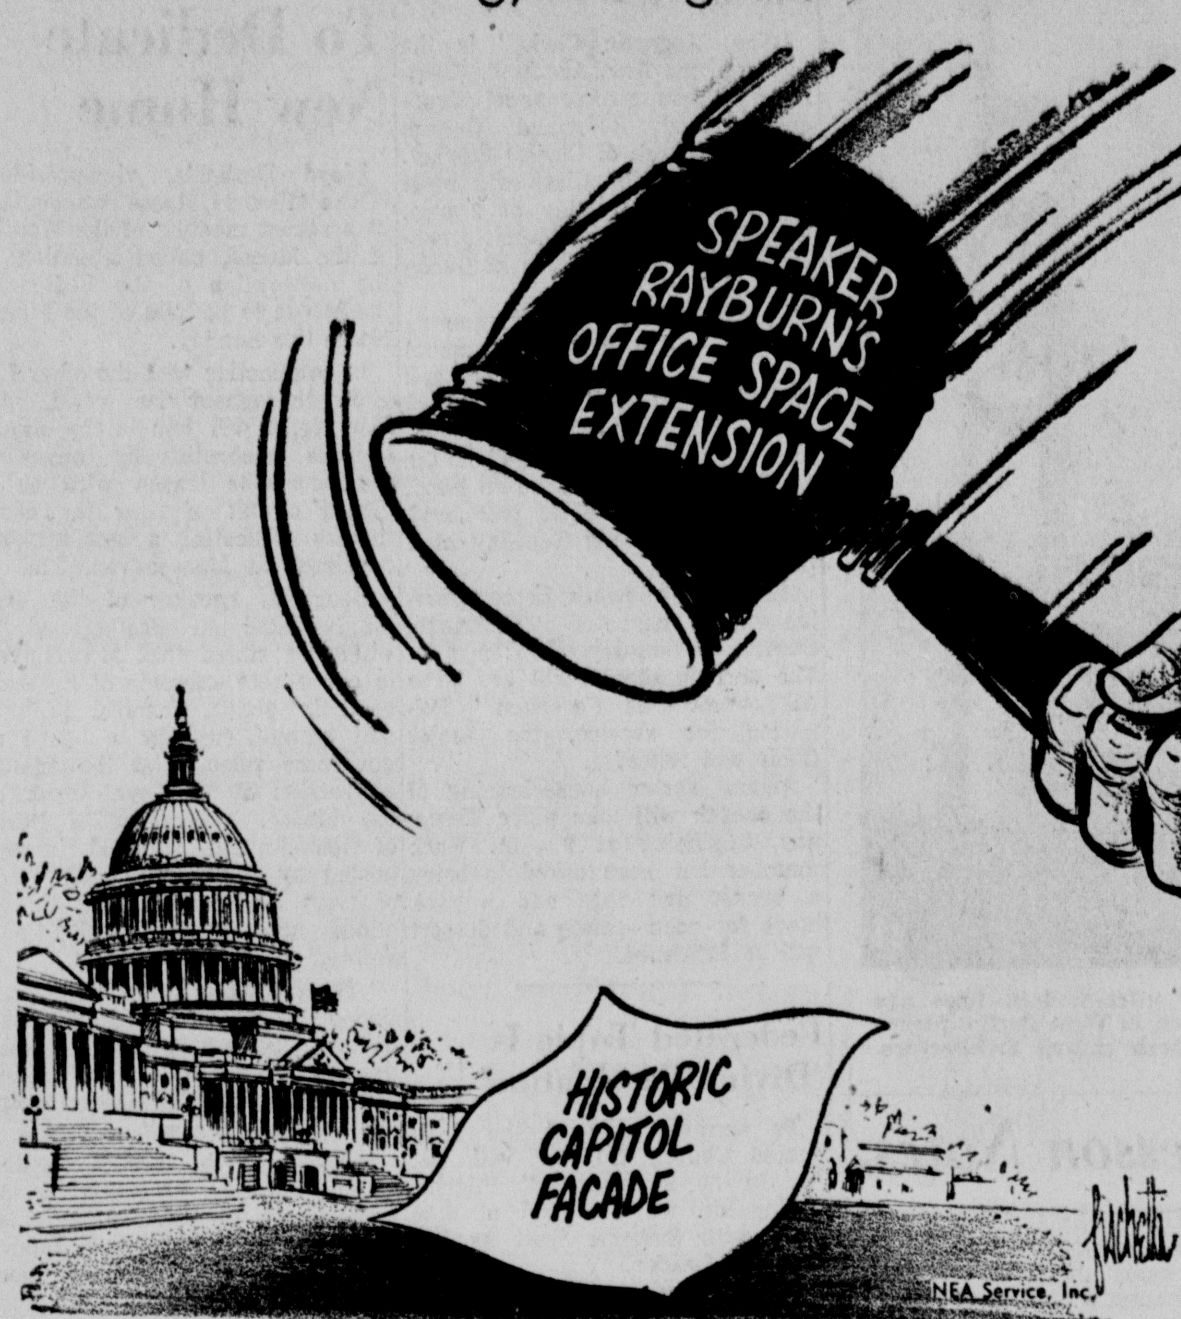

The primary purpose of language, after all, is that persons may make themselves understood. Everyone, whether he sanctions or abhors the word, understands the phrase, "I ain't got any money." All but the basic rules of grammar are forgotten by the average high school English student after graduation; he retains enough to enable him to speak and write. Freedom of speech is a basic part of our American heritage; perhaps our choice of words isn't so important as the thoughts behind them.

Thought For Today

For the which cause I also suffer these things: nevertheless I am not ashamed: for I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day.

Book Boats on the Erie Canal

Author Samuel Hopkins Adams, who wrote the accompanying chapter in the "Wake Up and Read" series for National Library Week, has written more than 50 books, ranging from a sensational exposé of the Harding Administration ("Incredible Era") to "Night Bus," which became the award-winning movie "It Happened One Night." His mellowing years have been devoted mostly to nostalgic, witty recreations of oldtime upstate New York.

(C) 1958 by Samuel Hopkins Adams

In an age teeming with print, it is difficult to imagine this nation as book-starved. Yet, so it was in the first quarter of the Nineteenth Century. A commonwealth firmly established, economically confident, and swiftly expanding was turning to the interests of the mind. Two dozen or more classical colleges were fostering an American culture which seeped down through the body politic. A growing public craved reading matter.

Prospective readers found their pickings. Libraries were confined to the large cities. The literate farmer or small town resident — and a surprising number of them were literate — must depend upon private amenity for his literary sustenance and borrow from the parson, the lawyer, or the M.D., though the local taproom would probably carry an almanac or two and the bank, a weekly.

Only the well-to-do could afford to buy books when a copy of Don

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
E. P. Neef was elected president of the Sedalia Country Club at a noon meeting of directors with Lee Montgomery being made vice-president, W. M. Johns secretary and Dr. J. E. Cannaday treasurer.

Mrs. George Crews, New York City, arrived for a lengthy visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Palmer, 901 South Vermont.

E. W. Headlee of the chemistry department at Smith-Cotton High School was in charge of the assembly program Tuesday in which talks and demonstrations were given on hobbies.

1933
Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Thompson, formerly of Route 7, who left Sedalia recently are at Perry Center, N.Y., with a daughter, Mrs. Nora T. Madsen.

FORTY YEARS AGO
E. C. Pfennig, secretary for the City Light & Traction Co., was transferred to Montgomery, Ala., to join S. B. Ireland, formerly manager of the Doherty properties in Sedalia.

1918
George W. Robb, John Gallie and Leo Gantard, Missouri Pacific shops machinists, resigned to be in service at Kelly Aviation Field, San Antonio, Tex., with the machinist department of the aviation corps.

1918
Dr. E. F. Yancey, chief surgeon for the M.K.T., went to Oklahoma City on company business.

Quixote cost $5 and a schoolmaster's wage was 50 cents a day (payable, as like as not, in oats, flaxseed or gunpowder).

Nevertheless presses sprang up. Books and pamphlets were published. The demand was insistent. Distribution was the difficulty. The turnpike stage had no spare space for literature. Freight wagons were crowded with the necessities of life. Postal service was casual and costly. The book trade was threatened with stagnation.

Then, with the wave of his politico-magical wand, Gov. DeWitt Clinton drove the Grand Erie Canal through the reluctant soil of New York State, from Hudson's River to Erie Water, and "Clinton's Ditch," derided and denounced by pennypinching politicians, became overnight the glory and boast of the whole nation, the Eighth Wonder of the World.

Freighting rates dropped 90 per cent. Transportation was off upon its greatest recorded boom. The new waterway bore proudly upon its four-foot depths, Albany to Buffalo, every requisite of a booming growth from pianofortes to pickled eels—everything except books. In the early records of the tax-locks, no quotation on rates for printed matter is found.

Just when the pioneer book huckster entered upon the maritime scene is a lost item of history. My paternal grandfather, who helped dig the Erie (his father was a canal contractor) and was, throughout his lifetime a passionate defender and fanatic patron of it, things that the Great Idea originated before 1830 and that literary canal traffic began as a sideline to one of those Refined Educational Animal Shows, common along the turnpikes and at country fairs, which had taken to the water.

Though he remembered neither the name of the boat nor of the showman, he was quite sure in the spring either of 1828 or 1829 the waterborne attractions of a live bear, a stuffed python, an educated monkey, and a bobcat painted with tiger-strips, were augmented with a supply of books for rent. He recalled, also, with disapproval, that the floating library carried a sale-stock of "bowk-sheets" (a bowker was a low-grade purveyor of improper literature); penny broadsides imprinted with ribald ballads, "less edifying than risible," said Grandfather.

This was but the embryo. A few years later there was launched a full-fledged Book Boat, so titled across its stern, which covered the full breadth of the state.

It carried a varied line, heavily slanted toward the theological trade at the top and toward taproom custom at the bottom, from Alarum to Unconverted Sinners and Buck's Theological Dictionary ("full of edifying information") to the Universal Jest Book and such excursions of mirth as Sorrowful Sam and "Thinks I to Myself—Who?" ("very comical") at the bottom.

The Book Boat pursued a leisurely course, often taking a month in the full traverse, Albany to Buffalo. Wherever sufficient interest was manifested it would "look for a post" in canal-side parlance, tie up to it, and throw open its Reading Room. Here, for 2 cents an hour, or 10 cents a day, the brains of the settlement might find satisfaction.

A well attested patron could carry the volume of his choice home with him at a per diem rental consonant with the price of the book. There was also a small stock of duplicates for outright sale, but as local bookstores began to develop, usually in conjunction with the drug trade, this phase diminished.

How long these floating libraries lasted is uncertain: up to Civil War time, Grandfather believes. By that time there was no further need for them. Libraries, large and small, had sprung up across the face of the nation. The Book Boat is forgotten now by all but historians and specialists. But, in its day it played an important, perhaps even a vital part. At a period when it was most needed it became a radiating agency of literature. There was no other distributive mechanism of its kind. The Book Boat was a pioneer.

Ruth Millett Says

Teenagers Have Behavior Standards For Parents, Too

All parents are conscious of the impression their teen-age sons and daughters make on friends of the parents.

But some parents don't seem to realize that their teen-age children also are concerned with the impression the parents make on the children's friends.

For instance, a teen-age girl is embarrassed if her mother tries to act like her sister and wants to be treated like one of the crowd. Any teen-age girl prefers to have her mother act like a mother and also to act her age.

A teen-age boy hates to have his parents remind him to "be careful" when he starts off in a car with a group of friends, or to have them tell him in the friends' hearing when he is expected to be home. All such warnings and instructions aren't nearly so resented if made in privacy.

A teen-age girl is embarrassed when her friends come to the house if her mother doesn't look neat and well-groomed. The teen-agers themselves may be in blue jeans with shirttails flapping, but Mom is expected to look trim.

A teen-age boy doesn't want to be questioned on where he has been and what he had been doing in front of his friends. If there is to be a question and answer session he fervently hopes it will wait until he hasn't an audience.

A teen-age girl or boy doesn't like to have his parents and their friends act too gay or drink enough to be rowdy. They expect dignity from parents and resent it when the parents refuse to be dignified.

No teen-ager of either sex wants his parents to make themselves conspicuous in public any way. It pains a teenager to see Pop being the life of the party or Mom losing her temper and giving someone a piece of her mind.

Teen-agers' standards for their parents are as strict, if not stricter, than parents' standards for their teen-agers. And parents do well never to forget that fact.

What Country Needs Is Junking Of Hoary Concepts

By Joseph A. Dear
Of Our Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON—United States is a land of idle resources. That is tragic and terrifying.

Five million Americans — more than six percent of the labor force — are out of work. That is tragic. For unemployment on such a scale means widespread misery.

The mighty steel industry, to cite an example, is limping along at 50% capacity. That is terrifying. For it cuts us down to Russia's size. The Communists, with a smaller industrial base, are matching us in production.

Even if the slump is temporary, it has brought about suffering and has given us a national black eye. How did it happen?

The wailing chorus of the Democrats would have us believe that it took positive genius on the part of Ike's Administration to get our big, fat, happy country in this fix. And the wailing chorus of the Republican Old Guard would have us believe the depression is retribution for unbalanced budgets, excessive government spending, and high taxes.

They're both right. But the Democrats will have the better of the argument. For Ike's Administration could have delayed the reckoning the Old Guard warned against by following different policies.

Only a year ago the Administration was clamping brakes on the economy. The Treasury Department and Federal Reserve Board wanted high interest rates to decrease borrowing. Ike wanted a balanced budget. He wouldn't ask Congress to raise the debt ceiling. The government was short of cash. The Pentagon, under "Engine Charlie" Wilson, ordered production cutbacks and stretchouts.

The brakes finally took hold. The economy went into reverse. Sputnik put a new complexion on the military picture. And but for that, the braking might have been more severe.

Now the problem is to start moving in the other direction. And it will be easier to do that if several hoary concepts are junked.

One myth is that the United States must choose between guns and butter. The theory behind this one is that you can have prosperity or an adequate military establishment, but not both.

World War II showed that this isn't necessarily the case, though the theory may have merit. Americans spent more on consumer goods in 1945, the last year of the war, than in any previous year. And that was true even though production of consumer durables (cars, refrigerators, etc.) had been drastically curtailed.

Another conception deserving thought is that of the Prudent Man. You know, the fellow who saves his money, spends wisely, doesn't buy a new car if he doesn't need one. Well, is this fellow the model man we should imitate, or is he the rascal who puts the skids under Detroit?

If we were all prudent enough not to waste money on showy but useless chrome trim, autoland would be in worse shape than it is.

Odds and Ends

THE LITTLE GIRL was over to her grandmother's house a couple of blocks from her own home and she was being very naughty. When the grandmother had had about as much as she could stand she turned to her and said: "Scarlet Lee, if you don't behave I'm going to send you right home to your mother."

The child came to her own defense. "I'm doing the best I can"

So grandmother gave up, and wondered how bad she would be if she wasn't trying to be good.

— H. L.

"WHAT MAKES YOU do things like that," a mother asked her ten-year-old boy when he had done something that displeased her very much.

The youngster thought a minute —he certainly didn't intend to do naughty things, it wasn't his nature to do them deliberately and there must be some reason why he did.

Finally he turned to his mother with, "I don't know why I do things like that," he told her, "unless it is because you spoiled me so much when I was little."

— H. L.

A WELL-KNOWN business woman who occasionally finds herself at a high pitch when she goes to bed and can't go to sleep, has discovered something that helps. She sings a song her father used to sing, "Flow Gently Sweet Afton", and it is such a slow meter that it just isn't possible to sing it fast. It somehow has a soothing and slowing down effect on her, and her nerves get settled so she can go to sleep.

When we suggested we might pass on the idea to other people who can't go to sleep she thought it was such an old song probably nobody else would know it. And maybe they wouldn't, but the idea would work with any slow song and why not just pick out a good lullaby and sing yourself to sleep. Of course, one must remember to sing the song softly as well as slowly or you are likely to keep yourself awake and wake up the rest of the household — but it might work as well as aspirin or tranquilizing pills and would be a lot cheaper.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

Americans are proud of their material advance over that of a few short years ago. They build monuments to progress and to people who have added to the material assets of mankind. High over Birmingham, Ala., stands a statue of Vulcan who represents industry and memorializes the higher standard of living which industry has made possible.

In contrast to this great statue is a small stone replica of a little-known clergyman kneeling in prayer in the center of the city. He will not long be remembered for his preaching nor for his outstanding service to the city.

His attitude of prayer will, however, give courage to thousands in the market place who pause and turn their hearts to God. It would be better to pray quietly for the millions who need God than to spend our total lives memorializing material gain. We, too, can minister through prayer for the human heart of the city.

Maag Speaks On Astronomy To Kiwanians

Satellites and astronomical implications was the illustrated verbal menu provided for Sedalia Kiwanians at their meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

The speaker was Russell Maag, local authority on astronomy and national president of 7,000 moon watchers in this country. For extra measure, he threw in a tape recording of transmitted radio signals from Sputniks I and II and Explorer I. Joe Allen handled the sound and projection equipment.

The speaker was introduced by William Ward, program chairman. The Rev. Edward R. Sims, president, reminded members of the 35th Anniversary Ladies night dinner meeting to be held Tuesday evening in Bothwell Hotel. Jasper W. Smith, Moberly, governor of the Missouri - Arkansas district, will make his official visit to the club.

Introduced by Pinkney Miller as guests of the club were Myrna Miller and Priscilla Scott, high school students who were creative artists in decorating the Kiwanis float which won first prize in the Missouri State Fair parade.

In tribute to James C. Leeders, deceased, the club members sang a religious song led by the Rev. Arthur Schmidt, with Miss Lillian Fox as accompanist.

Guests were: Kiwanians, John H. Gibson, Harold Slusher and Cleo H. Statton, Fulton; and John C. Fichter, Bethany.

Fire Chief May Make Application For Retirement

Fire Chief John G. Lueck, 1900 South Montauk, is expected to take his retirement from the Sedalia Fire Department about May 1 Lueck, although he has not made a formal announcement of his retirement under the Firemen's Pension Act, has indicated to friends he plans to leave the department at that time.

He must, however, write a letter requesting his retirement to the board of trustees of the Pension Fund and to the mayor of the city, for action. He has completed the necessary time of 25 years service on the department.

Lueck became a fireman on Jan. 1, 1920, and worked his way up, serving as a driver for a time and as assistant chief, and in 1936 was appointed fire chief. At that time he succeeded Chief W. H. Paul, who moved to Kansas City and later to St. Louis. Chief Paul died several years ago.

It is expected Emmett Vaughn, present assistant chief, will be the selection of the Mayor and City Council to succeed Lueck, with George Smethers, now captain, to move up into Vaughn's place. Just who will be named captain will be decided later.

House Committee Urges Appropriation For Public Buildings

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today recommended appropriation of $177,255,000 to finance construction of 66 public buildings in 27 states and Hawaii.

All of the buildings are projects approved earlier for construction under the 1954 lease-purchase law — by which private interests do the building and the government acquires title through annual lease payments.

The committee ordered termination of the lease-purchase program, except for post office projects, on the grounds it was too costly. The action is subject to approval by the full House next week.

Projects which now would be built through direct government appropriations include:

Arkansas: Helena, $920,000; Hot Springs, $1,558,000; Little Rock, $8,541,000.

Missouri — Marshfield, $300,000; Moberly, $470,000; St. Louis, $11,641,000.

Sedalia Lions See Pro Football Movie

The Sedalia Lions Club members saw motion pictures on the 1957 Professional Football games as provided by Miller's Brewing Co. in connection with their sports program.

During the meeting two new members were introduced, Jim Askren, of Peoples Furniture Co., and John Herring of Sinclair Oil Company.

It was announced the Lions will join with the Kiwanis Club on Thursday, May 8, to hear a talk by Dan Devine, the University of Missouri's new football coach. He will be accompanied by Don Faurot, athletic director of the university.

A. B. Warren, president, conducted the meeting.

City Parking Lot Is Being Revamped

The city parking lot next to the City Hall, Second and Kentucky, is to undergo extensive revamping. In fact, all of the city property in the area of the city hall is being shaped up for a more complete off-street parking area.

The Missouri Public Service Co. is moving large electric poles in the alley between Kentucky and Osage for the purpose of getting some off of the proposed parking lot and others over next to the buildings. These poles are being so arranged that they will be on each side of a 12-foot alley way.

Thus the property north of the alley, which is city property, will be developed into additional off-street parking.

Entrance to the revamped parking area will be changed, it will possibly be off of Osage through the new alley and exit off of the lot on to Kentucky. It has not been definitely decided, but a new entrance and exit will be made. This arrangement will be subject to the blueprint layout for parking spaces.

Druids Usher Spring Into Great Britain

LONDON (AP)—An Druid Uleach Braithrechas made with the horn of plenty and the wheat kernels yesterday, so it is now spring in Britain. The temperature was 7 degrees above freezing and a cruel east wind was blowing.

Spring is ushered in each year by an Druid Uleach Braithrechas, which means Order of Druids. The order, founded in 1781, is a secret lodge based on the outfit of the same name which constituted high society in the old pagan days.

The rites took place as usual on Bryn Gwyn—known to the non-Druids as Twer Hill—in the middle of the old inner city of London.

The Druids emerged from their temple about 300 yards from the site, led by Dr. R. McGregor Reid, Chosen Chief of the Order. He was followed by nine lesser Druids, six female and three male. All hands wore white robes and hoods.

The audience consisted of a group of truck drivers, typists from nearby office buildings and a passing parcel of American tourists under the close escort of a guide.

One Druid carried a shepherd's crook, another a 6-foot horn, and a third a sheathed sword. The man with the horn blew it toward the four points of the compass.

The Chosen Chief held the sword aloft and asked "Is it peace?" Four of the female acolytes faced north, east, south and west and asked "Is it peace?"

"They think Khrushchev can hear them from here?" muttered a truck driver.

Mrs. Lyndia K. Butler, wearing a gold-lined cloak over her white robe, then performed "The entry of the maid." She carried a horn of plenty. In ancient days the horn was filled with mead. This one contained cider.

The Chosen Chief drank a sip of cider and watered the ground with the remainder of it. The maid offered him a tray of wheat kernels. He strewn them on the earth, which at this spot consists of solid concrete.

Optimists Mark Founders Month at Tuesday Meeting

Jack O. Creasy, Columbia, vice-president of Optimist International, addressed the Optimist Club members and their wives Tuesday noon at a meeting at Bothwell Hotel.

"This is Founders Month," Creasy reminded the group, "and time to think about this thing called Optimism. Get out and put it to work," he urged, "if you want to be richly repaid. One of the greatest things the Optimist Club has is its creed, which should give members an inspiration to go out and do better things."

Optimism, he said, means freedom. "To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind" he quoted the first phrase of the Optimist Creed, and went on to say that the pioneers of this country and the refugees of today must have carried that in their hearts. He pointed out what the Statue of Liberty has meant to so many people. It symbolizes optimism, he said, for that is America. If all of us could see her as they have seen her, he said, we would know how much they could love this great statue. Long before France gave this statue to America, he told the group, this country meant refuge and hope.

Optimism, Creasy said, is vision. He repeated the Optimist Creed

Scramble For NCAA Title Starts Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Three-time champion Kentucky and neophytes Temple, Kansas State and Seattle tonight begin the scramble that in 24 hours will lead one of the four to the NCAA basketball championship.

Kentucky (21-6) meets Temple (26-2) in the opening semifinal, followed by K-State (22-3) vs. Seattle (22-5). Tonight's winners play for the title tomorrow night after a consolation game for third place.

Big bruising Kansas State, the Big Eight champion, rates even money favorite with the odds-makers. Kentucky's Southeastern Conference kings, old hands at NCAA play with 10 appearances and three titles, moved up at a late hour as second choice at 9-5. Temple, pride of the Middle Atlantic Conference and winner of 25 straight, was 3-1 and Seattle, the only "at large" survivor, 9-2 despite the presence of All-American Elgin Baylor.

None except Kentucky has won an NCAA title, although Temple has tried twice, K-State three times and Seattle four.

All four teams went through final practices, Kansas State and Temple on slightly wobbly legs. Both teams encountered flight delays en route here because of the widespread snowfall.

Temple's All America Guy Rodgers wore a corset but said his back sprain, suffered in the Eastern regional at Charlotte, gave him no trouble.

The field's other casualty, Johnny Cox of Kentucky, limited his workout to loosening up and gave his swollen finger another day's rest. "He's okay," said Coach Adolph Rupp.

Business College Exiles Queens In Women's Cage

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — The fabulous 131-game winning streak compiled by Wayland College of Plainview, Tex., came to an abrupt halt here Thursday night in the semifinals of the Women's National AAU basketball tournament.

Nashville, Tenn., Business College exiled the Queens, who were shooting for their fifth straight national title. The fourth seeded Nashville team bumped Wayland 46-42.

Wayland Coach Harley Redin praised his team in defeat and said, "Nashville played well and when it appeared we were off to a bad start, they pepped up while our girls lightened."

"But we're ready to start over and I think the club will be another strong contender next year. I just hope they don't let Kansas City push us out of the game for third place tonight."

Nashville Coach John Head said he has never had a team carry out instructions so complete. "Nor have I had a team play a more poised four-quarters of basketball. We pressed them every minute of the way and played well in the clutch," he said. "It was wonderful."

The last big upset in women's basketball was provided by Wayland in the finals of the 1954 national AAU tournament at Wichita, Kan. That year the Queens beat Hanes of Winston Salem, N. C., 26-28. Hanes had compiled a record of 101 straight wins.

Wayland's streak started with the 51-31 victory over Dowell's Dolls of Amarillo, Tex., on Nov. 7th, 1953.

Bayer Hopes Tournay Will End Long Slump

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Vim and vigor have returned to the big frame of George Bayer and the San Gabriel, Calif., professional hopes the $15,000 St. Petersburg Open will end his winter-long golfing slump.

Bayer went into today's second round two strokes ahead of the field, thanks to an opening three-under-par 68—his best round in months.

The current Canadian open titleholder, he has won less than $1,000 off the winter tour. His best finish was a tie for 19th in the Tijuana Open.

Only six players in the field of 147 first round finishers managed to crack par over the soggy, wind-swept Pasadena course. It measures 6,256 yards and has a par of 35-37.

Bayer's fellow parbusters all had 70s. They were Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla.; Kay Brewer Jr., Cincinnati; Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa.; Bert Weaver, Beaumont, Tex.; and Jack Lumpkin, Athens, Ga.

Defending champion Pete Cooper of Lakeland was well back at 74.

Trucks Is Effective In First Appearance

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Virgil Trucks, starting his 20th year in professional baseball, was loose-armed and effective in his first appearance of the spring yesterday.

Trucks pitched the seventh and eighth innings for the Kansas City Athletics against the Pittsburgh Pirates. He had said beforehand he wouldn't throw hard, but he held the Pirates scoreless.

He gave up two singles and two walks, properly spaced.

Pittsburgh already had the game wrapped up 7-4.

Trucks, who will be 30 next month, won 9 and lost 7 for the A's last year and posted a 3.03 earned run average, the club's best.

Logart Pits Skill Against Virgil Akins

NEW YORK (AP)—Cuba's sleek Isaac Logart pits his speed and boxing skill against the punching power of veteran Virgil Akins in a 12-round bout tonight that will earn the winner a shot at the welterweight championship within 90 days.

Logart is a 7-5 favorite to win the third and "rubber" clash of the 147-pounders at Madison Square Garden.

For this semifinal of the elimination tournament each will receive a $20,000 guarantee plus the right to face Vince Martinez for the vacant title.

The championship has been open since Carmen Basilio had to yield it when he ascended to the middleweight throne by whipping Sugar Ray Robinson last Sept. 23.

Basilio, busy preparing for his defense against Robinson next Tuesday in Chicago, leans towards Logart.

"Logart has youth and speed going for him," said Basilio.

But the 30-year-old St. Louis veteran who is supremely confident he will nail his 24-year-old rival from Camaguey, Cuba.

"Logart has slowed down considerably since I fought him last," said the guy they call "Honey Bear" in St. Louis. "He's not as fast or shifty. I'll take him and then Martinez, maybe both by knockouts."

"He's in for a surprise," said Logart. "I know I'm faster and better since I fought him. And I won both fights from him even though I didn't get the decision in the first one. I'll outbox him."

They met twice in 1955. Akins won the first by split decision while Logart beat his sluggish rival easily the second time. NBC will broadcast and telecast at 10 p.m., EST.

Score Works Three Shutout Innings

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "I'm just going along like it never happened," says Cleveland southpaw Herb Score of the accident that nearly ended his baseball career last May 7.

He worked three shutout innings against the San Francisco Giants yesterday and pronounced himself in good shape except for an ankle injury that still bothers him.

Hit in the right eye by a line drive, Score didn't pitch again in 1957 and when he came to this camp the question was whether he'd come back.

"I all intents and purposes he has done it, although two weeks ago he turned his ankle while working out in a gym. My eye is just fine and I don't notice any difference in my pitching," he says. "I haven't had any difficulty."

The question came up whether he might be a little gun shy of batted balls. "I don't think so, but that's something we'll have to prove," he said.

Delany Sprints After Indoor Mile Record

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ron Delany, the Irish speedster, will help put a flourish on the finish of the indoor track season tonight at the Knights of Columbus mile here.

Delany, who set a new mark for the indoor mile just last week at Chicago, will be after his 24th straight indoor mile victory. No one is predicting another lowering of the record, primarily because it takes 12 laps to make a mile at the arena.

Delany covered 11 laps in setting the new record of 4:03.4 last week. He captured the event here last year in 4:10.4.

Included in the four-man field running against Delany are Burr Grim of Maryland and Arnie Sowell, former Pitt 1,000-yard run champ who now is in the Army at Fort Ord, Calif.

Phillies First Sack Problem Is Desperate

By JOHN CHANDLER

The Associated Press

The first baseman problem with the Philadelphia Phillies remained desperate today when Joe Collins of the New York Yankees retired from baseball after being sold to the Quaker City club for the $20,000 waiver price.

"If I can't be a Yankee, I'm through with baseball," Collins, 35, said at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Philadelphia had sought a first sacker after Ed Bouchee, an outstanding 1957 rookie, became involved with the law. Bouchee is now taking psychiatric treatment.

Harry Anderson was given a crack at the job by Mayo Smith, Phil's manager, but now is in the outfield. Yesterday when the Yankees trounced the Phillies in an exhibition game 11-8 Frank Herrera, a Cuban with triple A experience, played first.

Collins, of Union, N.J., has been in the Yankee organization since 1939. He played over 100 games each season until 1957, when in 79 contests he batted only .201, his poorest year. Bill Skowron is the regular Yankee first baseman, and Marv Throneberry is the No. 2 man.

The two most valuable players of 1957, Mickey Mantle of New York and Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, both had two homers to lead their teams to victory.

Mantle's blasts and a double drove in six runs as the Yankees won their sixth straight.

Aaron also belted in four runs as the Braves belted the Cincinnati Redlegs 11-1 at Bradenton, Fla. Right-hander Bob Buhl won his first spring game for the world champions.

Baltimore defeated Chicago 4-1 in the first game of a twin bill at Scottsdale, Ariz., but the Cubs blanked the Orioles 1-0 in 10 innings in the second game.

The San Francisco Giants went 10 innings in defeating the Cleveland Indians 7-5 at Tucson, Ariz., on rookie catcher Bob Schmidt's homer.

Jack Urban gave up five runs at Fort Myers, Fla., and the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Kansas City Athletics 7-4 behind the pitching of Ron Kline and Roy Face.

The Los Angeles Dodgers scored two runs in both the seventh and eighth innings and defeated the Detroit Tigers 6-4 in a night game at Miami.

Don Drysdale started for the Dodgers and didn't allow a Tiger to reach first in four innings. Four hits and two walks off Danny McDevitt gave Detroit four runs in the sixth. Gino Cimoli's double following singles by Dick Gray and Charlie Neal scored two runs and broke the 4-4 tie in the eighth.

Emergency Landing Old Stuff to Kanab

KANAB, Utah (AP) — A small plane was spotted circling last night over Kanab, just north of the Utah-Arizona state line.

Townpeople rushed an estimated 300 cars to the small, unlit municipal airport to light up the runway with headlights.

The plane landed short of the runway, narrowly missed a few cars and hit a tree. Aboard were K. L. Lincoln, 37, Alamo, Calif., contractor, and his wife Audrey, 35. They were en route to Las Vegas, Nev., from Phoenix, Ariz.

They were taken to Kane County Hospital, where their injuries were described as not serious. The plane was demolished. "This is old stuff to folks around here," airport employee R. K. Knight said. "Whenever we see a plane circling at night, we rush the cars out to the airport."

The two complete the squad. Other members are Hub Reed, Oklahoma City University; Mike Farmer and Gene Brown of San Francisco University; Jack Parr and Roy DeWitt of Kansas State; Fred Grim, Arkansas, and Lyle Frahm, Iowa State.

Billy Wilson has caught 39 touchdown passes in his seven seasons with the San Francisco 49ers.

Pairings Set For Finals In NIT Tourney

NEW YORK (AP)—Impressive victories by top-seeded Dayton and unranked Xavier have set up an all-Ohio championship game in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament.

But Dayton Coach Tom Blackburn is not very happy about the pairings.

The Flyers rode over St. John's of New York 80-56 and Xavier knocked off third-seeded St. Bonaventure 72-53 in last night's semifinals in Madison Square Garden.

The finals will be played tomorrow and will be preceded by a consolation game for third place between the Bonnies and St. John's.

Dayton advanced to the finals four times in its six previous NIT appearances and has yet to take home the championship. The Flyers were runners-up in 1951, 1952, 1955 and 1956.

"We would rather have played St. Bonaventure Saturday," said Blackburn. "We beat Xavier twice during the regular season and they'll be gunning for us. Also they're playing much better now than when we faced them." Dayton whipped the Musketeers 74-59 Jan. 19 and 64-58 Feb. 16.

Xavier's Hank Stein, 6-2 junior from Louisville, Ky., scored 27 points.

Xavier, which turned back Niagara and defending champion Bradley to reach the semis, had its lead reduced to three points early in the second half. But Stein got his team rolling again.

For a while it looked as though Dayton would have its hands full with St. John's. The Redmen led 39-38 in the fifth minute of the second half. But the Flyers forged in front behind the sharpshooting of Don Lane and Frank Case.

Jack McCarthy, Dayton's 6-6 center, was the game's high scorer with 25 points. Case had 23 and Lane 14.

Saturday's championship game will be nationally televised by CBS.

Ennis Moving Fast On Cards' Lineup

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Del Ennis of the St. Louis Cardinals, a notoriously slow starter, is moving at a fast clip this spring. "He's swinging like it is mid-season," said Manager Fred Hutchinson.

The stocky outfielder is hitting .364, third among the Cards. His batting average last year and for 12 major league seasons is .286.

Farmers Union Rejects Move To Rap Benson

DENVER (AP)—A proposal which convention officials said was aimed at Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson was rejected overwhelmingly by the National Farmers Union yesterday.

Frank Haumont of Broken Bow, Neb., attempted to insert into the union's 1958 program a statement saying: "We recognize the support of the basic principle of the separation of church and state in America as of great importance to the integrity of both the churches and the civil government. We question the propriety of men of life-time high rank in church office being in high administrative civil office."

The proposal got only four votes on a show of hands at the final session of the farmers union's biennial convention.

The convention also voted to send its president, James G. Patton, to England to explain the union's views on farming and world affairs. No date was set for the visit.

Patton was re-elected president of the Farmers Union, which he has headed since 1940. He was not opposed. Glenn J. Talbot of Jamestown, N. D., was selected vice president, also without opposition.

The Michigan State baseball team will have plenty of local interest this season. Three members of the squad are from Lansing, outfielders Dean Look and John Carter and pitcher Larry Foster.

Most Businessmen Elated To See Springtime Arrive

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Spring has made it on the calendar no matter where it may have got bogged down on the weather map. Almost the only businessmen sorry to see winter go are those in the coal and fuel oil and natural gas industries and the makers of tranquilizers.

A lot of businessmen are eager to welcome spring. For instance, all those who cater to the growing American trend to outdoor living.

For one thing, they expect Americans to pay nearly 1½ billion dollars this year on planting and maintaining grass plots, from the smallest of front yards to the plushiest of golf links.

Workers expect new jobs to open up soon on the farms. The coming of better building weather should furnish more work. Already the lumber areas of the Northwest report a rush of orders for plywood which has firmed prices there after months of price weakness and widespread unemployment.

Garment makers who have staked large sums of money on the chemise are confident they'll get it back when spring sends women into the stores in greater numbers.

Merchants are watching for the expected spring pickup in retail sales in general. Bad weather in February turned many retailers gloomy but there's still time to recoup, although Myron S. Silbert, vice president of Federated Department Stores, tells the Dallas meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board that because of weakness in consumer durables total trade this spring may be off from last year by 2 or 3 per cent.

The travel industry looks for its biggest year. The Department of Commerce predicts a further rise in foreign travel in 1958 and says that last year Americans spent nearly two billion dollars that way, a 6½ per cent gain over 1956.

Steamship companies report big bookings in the summer months. The airlines see April 1 as their kickoff day because a new low-fare service to Europe starts then. The International Air Transport Assn. reports its 81 members have 2,900 aircraft in operation around the world. And in the oil industry domestic travelers are counted upon to spark the seasonal switch in emphasis from fuel oil to gasoline.

Stay at homes are expected to go in more than ever for outdoor living.

The Dutch expect to sell 30 million dollars worth of bulbs here, spring and fall. The cookout has become so popular that it now accounts for an estimated 50 million dollars outlay annually.

Nearly a quarter of a billion dollars a year is reported spent on garden supplies, with the average outlay put at $5.

Trends reported in this industry include: greater attention to color and style design both in the products and their packaging; adaption of tools and machines to easy handling by women; more convenience machines such as the riding power mower; and making one machine do many jobs.

Klansmen Convicted In School Bomb Plot

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Three members of a Ku Klux Klan klavern, which was broken up by a police undercover agent, were convicted yesterday of plotting to place a homemade bomb at a Negro school.

An all-white jury, including one woman, recommended mercy. Two other Klansmen were acquitted.

Lester Francis Caldwell, grand wizard of Klavern 22, was convicted along with Arthur Monroe Brown Jr. and William Oliver Spencer of conspiring to bomb the school near here Feb. 15. Caldwell also was convicted of attempting to carry out the plan.

Superior Court Judge Zeb V. Nettles sentenced Caldwell to 5 to 10 years for trying to bomb the school and to two to five years for conspiracy. The judge suspended the shorter sentence on good behavior. Spencer and Brown were sentenced to two to five years.

Acquitted were David Dennis Quick, charged with conspiracy, and Jack Ayscue, accused of trying to bomb the school.

Finds Reason For Interest In Maverick

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—In the course of a 1,800-mile motor trip hither and yonder in the South and East you learn that just about everybody is his own best television critic.

Although we definitely weren't conducting an audience survey, it was interesting to learn—among other things—how popular Maverick is.

WRIGLEYS SPEARMINT CHEWING GUM

We tuned in last Sunday to try to discover the reason.

The program, "Black Fire," concerned a rich old man who called a dozen distant relatives to his remote ranch with the announced purpose of picking his heirs. Bart Maverick was involved in the proceedings because he was paying off a bet or something by pretending to be one of the relatives, a cynical painter, while the painter pretended he was Maverick.

Well, three of the relatives were murdered and suspicion focused on numerous people before it turned out that the butler did it for reasons too complicated to be worth going into here. Things ended happily with the old man deciding not to die but to go, instead, to Paris with the painter while Maverick returned to a poker game in Denver.

As with every Maverick program we've happened to see, "Black Fire" was intricately plotted. It was also heavily populated with a variety of well thought briefly characterized roles.

The creators of Maverick seem to have captured the interest of a large group of viewers by throwing numerous plot and character ingredients into the pot and boiling it well. Also, its dialogue is crisp and well-written.

Probably another ingredient of its popularity is the fact that Maverick is a basically decent guy who lives as a gambler on the very edge of the law. He's a change from the numerous highly moral law enforcement heroes who people our television screens these evenings.

Remembering that the folk heroes of literature have more frequently been law-breakers than law-abiders you can see that Maverick stems from an ancient and popular tradition.

Yemen Claims Arms Taken by French

CAIRO (AP)—Yemen today claimed ownership of the arms confiscated by the French from the Yugoslav ship Slovenija and demanded the French turn over the shipment.

The French commandeered the ship off the coast of Morocco last Jan. 18, charging the 150 tons of arms and munitions were destined for the Algerian rebels. Yugoslavians said they were consigned to a "private group" in Morocco.

The Moroccan to whom the arms were consigned insisted they were headed for Yemen, the medieval kingdom across Africa on the Red Sea.

A statement from the Yemeni legation here said the Slovenija was unable to sail direct to Yemen from its Yugoslav port because of unexplained technical reasons and had to detour via Casablanca.

Uses Tranquilizers On Unstable Animals

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Got a barking dog, unstable cat, wild bull, skittish horse?

Try tranquilizer drugs, advised about 100 veterinarians at a symposium here yesterday. The veterinarians reported on their use of tranquilizers in Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas.

Dr. Donald F. Walker of Broken Bow, Neb., told how he tested the money-saving quality of tranquilizers in shipping cattle.

He tested 63 beef animals shipped from Belle Fourche, S.D., to Broken Bow. He injected the drug in 33. The untreated animals lost an average of 69 pounds on the trip. The tranquil ones averaged losing only 44.5 pounds.

Tracy Claims Oscar Is Vote Of Confidence

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Far be it from Spencer Tracy to dampen the enthusiasm over Academy Awards, but—

He says an Oscar doesn't mean much to an actor "except as a vote of confidence by your friends."

He adds that the movie industry is nuts to put its biggest show on TV.

And he says film stars are crazy to go on the show.

This all might sound like sour grapes, except that Tracy is a two-time winner himself. Always the maverick, he offered this reasoning: "Why should we put our money up to do the show on the medium of our mortal enemy—television? Why should it cost us, anyway? A TV network should pay Hollywood to have a show with so many stars."

He remarked: "I think those stars are crazy to go on the show. Some of those dolls come into the studio at 5:30 in the morning to look their best for shooting at 9. Yet they'll go on TV and be seen by millions of people and have no control over how they look."

"Another thing—the public is going to be mighty surprised when they compare the stars today with how they looked on the late movie on TV last night."

Tracy's idea: The Academy should film its show in color and play it in theaters, like the Queen Elizabeth coronation films. His is just a voice in the wilderness, but the managers with empty theaters next Wednesday night may agree with him.

Idyllic sight from the Hollywood Freeway: a herd of horses roaming over the hills of Universal-International Studios. There used to be cowpokes on them, but I guess they went over the hills to TV.

Two Liners Involved In Idlewild Accidents

NEW YORK (AP)—Two big airliners—one Bermuda-bound and the other headed for Copenhagen—were involved in accidents at Idlewild Airport during the snowstorm last night. No one was injured.

A Pan American World Airways DC6 bound for Bermuda took off successfully but Capt. Edward Lawler, 43, Fanwood, N.J., reported the nose wheel would not retract and he headed back to the field.

After landing, the plane ground-looped (spun around). The 11 occupants were shaken up but none reported injury. It was believed an accumulation of slush and snow lodged in the nose wheel housing and became frozen.

Earlier, a Scandinavian Airlines DC7 skidded 100 feet off the runway while starting to take off. Fifty persons aboard escaped injury.

Driver Gets Students Off Stalled Vehicle

SYOSSET, N. Y. (AP)—School bus driver Albert Witte worked fast yesterday when his vehicle stalled on a crossing minutes before a Long Island Rail Road train was due.

It was snowing when the bus stalled on the tracks. Witte, of Bayville, N. Y., immediately opened the front door and emergency exit and shouted "Outside."

He literally threw some of the slower moving students out of the bus.

As he herded the youngsters to safety, a New York-bound train came along. The engineer applied the brakes and the train slowed enough to just nudge the bus, which was driven away later.
